

BLAINE CROSS-EXAMINED.

A VERY LIVELY DIALOGUE BETWEEN HIM AND MR. BELMONT.

The Ex-Secretary Being Glosely Pressed Respects to Sheep, Narwhal, and Petty Jokes.—Trying to Get at the Facts in the Landrum Case—Mr. Blaine's Opinion that England Put up a Job and Got the Loot—The President's Alterations in a Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Mr. Belmont today displayed an exuberance and coolness in dealing with Mr. Blaine which was not expected.

Mr. Belmont acted evidently on the principle followed by the expert angler for bluegill, who always lets go of something he catches, but it is a controversial point. But the President of the United States now disclosed, said to me, a slightly alter'd and less brief despatch to the Secretary of State, the Chairman, Mr. Lincoln directed Mr. Seward to bring all his foreign matters to him, and not to intrude them to the Secretary of State.

A. Yes. If I understand the situation, he had a claim against Peru after he became an American citizen, and when he came to the Cabinet, Mr. Lincoln directed Mr. Seward to bring all his foreign matters to him, and not to intrude them to the Secretary of State.
